Case Study

Background

Torben has been part of the 4WD Touring Australia team for years, working alongside iconic YouTube personality Ronny Dahl. He has a deep history in off-roading and camping while his background as an electrician allows him to modify and tailor his vehicle and its systems to best suit his needs.

His 2012 single cab 79 Series Toyota Landcruiser features a removable canopy fitted to a shortened light-weight tray, fitted with a custom draw system which houses all of his 12volt accessories.

What problem did RedVision resolve

My first impression of the RedVision system display and app was that this is going to reduce a huge amount of stress in trying to figure out how much power I'm using. Not only that it allows me to quickly determine if I have enough power to see me through without having to look at several different gauges, and being able to control everything I want in one location.

It's also been so flexible and useful in allowing me to access the RedVision System via the app on my phone so I can switch accessories on and off without having to go to the control panel.

How do you use RedVision

As an electrician and someone who loves setting up and toying with gadgets and gauges, the RedVision TVMS has streamlined the whole set up and really does look the goods.

REDARC Support

The product and after sales support with REDARC using the RedVision System has been outstanding and very helpful on every occasion.

Key benefit

The most impressive feature I found with the RedVision System was the units' ability to have so many switched circuits and real time read outs in such a small unit.

The most critical or important function of the RedVision System is hands down the real time power discharge and recharge information provided on the display so I never run out of power.

I would highly recommend the RedVision System to anyone I meet as I believe it is a game changer in bringing high-tech and standard camping essentials together with the push of a button that anyone can understand.
